

Directions: As a full team, it is time to report out on all the information gathered thus far. How are the individual research topics coming along? Each person will share his or her information and as they are sharing, other members will not speak, but listen carefully. When each member has shared research findings, you will all discuss what information will be included in your radio show episodes. You need to think of what characters are being portrayed and what historical information is relevant to the episode.

Team Captain: _____

Each member shares research information and relates this information to the characters , plot or theme of the novel.

As a group, select which historical information will be integrated into the final old radio show:

The universal themes that each one of you can identify are:

How will you integrate these themes into your radio episodes?

What newly acquired vocabulary will you choose to integrate?

Final Presentation Update:

Have you begun to write the scripts for the episodes?

Discuss the format for your Old Time Radio Show. Will you be using a microphone/recorder or computer for recording? Have you familiarized yourself with Garage Band or recording equipment so that you can record easily?
